

Feeling at Home

Can you help us with our research on what helps people with learning disabilities feel at home?

We are interested in the experiences of people with learning disabilities living in 'group homes' where they share their home with at least one service user and have daily staff support.

- Do you have a family member with learning disabilities who lives in a group home?
- Do you work with people with learning disabilities living in a group home as a support worker or manager?

Can we interview you?

- We want to hear your thoughts and experiences about group homes.
- The interview would be about 60 minutes.
- We can do this by video conferencing, phone, or in person at King's College London – whatever is easiest for you.
